Hi Don,

I thought so too. I accidentally invited her to all of the meetings including the state meeting. She declined the state meeting so I did not bother to "un-invite her"

She was quiet so I don't think it mattered. She may have left during the call too as it was an entirely technical and policy type of call.

Jayne--

I think the agenda with the state should also include discussion of if the state still thinks it will be able to meet the June 2013 deadline for the mid-coast TMDL and guidance to address the new devel MM. This may be included in the topics you've already listed but we should be sure to ask these specific questions as it will inform our federal decision to ask for SA extension.

Also, I'm not sure how detailed a discussion you planned to have about NWEA's letters with the state and the overall purpose--just make sure ODEQ received them and are aware of the main points? These letters were quiet lengthy and while I'm familiar with the general themes, I won't have time to refresh myself on the specific points and issues each raises to have an in-depth discussion with ODEQ tomorrow. Perhaps others will be able to cover this?

 Hi Allison,

She won't be joining us for the State call. We already have given her a briefing (while she was in Seattle last week) and provided her with some reading materials. She is from Region 3 (Philadelphia) where she will continue to reside and actually has TMDL experience. In particular, I wanted her to hear about and (possibly provide input) on the possible request for a schedule change; some of the other topics may be of interest to her as well. I will call her today and ask that she write down any questions and we can discuss them after the call. Sound like a plan?

Hi Jayne--

I noticed you invited the new regional attorney assigned to the OR lawsuit. I think its fine, if she wants to listen in to get familiar but it looks like we have a pretty full agenda so I don't think its appropriate for us to spend time getting her up to speed during this call. That's something the EPA folks can do at a different time. Also, I assume she won't be joining us for the ODEQ call following? I think that should be kept to programmatic staff. Adding a lawyer to the mix can change the tenor at times and I don't think ODEQ plans to have their legal folks on the call.
